DOUBLE LIFE CHARGED TO EATON BY WIDOW

"Admiral Was Sometimes a Gentleman, and Sometimes Vilest of Vile," Says Woman's Defender.

PLYMOUTH, MASS., Oct. 24.—Admiral Francis T. Geoghan, junior counsel for Mrs. Eaton, widow of Admiral Eaton, in his opening address to the defense, rebuked parts of the story which the accused woman is to tell to the jury from the witness stand.

"We will show you that there was no trifling or misunderstanding on the day when the Admiral was taken sick," he said. "We will show that many instances must be Mrs. Eaton's fault that the Admiral had many temptations and facts; that they were not intended for harm and that they were not half-temptations."

"We will show you that he had a double life; that sometimes he was a gentleman, other times he was the viles of the viles. We will show by the testimony of physicians that he treated his wife and himself in Washington, D. C., that while his first wife was sick and on her deathbed, he made a drink from morning until night and from nine till morning, and although in the very house at the time of the burial of this woman, he was unable to attend the services in the church."

In addition to this habit, we will show from the men who served with him on the battleship Massachusetts that he had a double life."

He said a Boston physician prescribed a tablet containing one one-hundredth grain of arsenic to Admiral Eaton for stomach trouble.

Warden Is Sure Man In Jail 17 Years Is Innocent of Crime

He was often a patient for the prison doctor who invited upon having a talk with the warden before leaving the prison probably for good. Warden McHenry paid him to his wife.

"He was convicted in Lancaster, Pa., of setting fire to a barn," said Warden McHenry. "He got 40 years. He was a good man, but he was practically uneducated. It was simple in a case in which some person had to be punished, and this poor, illiterate man was practically sentenced to life imprisonment."

Confirms Confession Over Protest of Prisoner's Counsel. County Treasurer Recites It.

GRAYS, Oct. 24.—When the trial of Nick Wilburn, charged with the murder of James King, was resumed yesterday, the defense was asked if the confession of the defendant was true.

Mr. E. K. Roan, of the defense, said that the confession was made by the defendant to the police, but he had no objection to the admission of the confession.

Mr. Arnold, of the prosecution, argued that the confession was made by the defendant to the police, but he had no objection to the admission of the confession.

Confession to Etheridge.

Mr. E. K. Roan, of the defense, said:

"When Nick offered to make a confession I asked him if what he had to say was voluntary, and he said it was. I told him to go on, and he did. He had nothing to tell all day. I offered him no inducement or hope of reward."

He said that Mrs. King was the cause of it all. I asked him how, and he replied that in March, 1912, Mrs. King called him into the kitchen and threw her arms around his neck and begged and implored him to tell that he was then becoming intimate. Later, she wanted him to kill her husband, he said. Wilburn told me that Mrs. King had been ill and that he had put poison in some whisky or shoot him some time while he was out hunting. Wilburn said he was on the day of the killing sent to the office of his employer, Mr. King, and asked where Mr. King was and Mrs. King, asked where Mr. King was and Mrs. King replied, "It is my time," and said to him, "Mr. King, King replied, "It is my time."

DORSEY PLANS TO FIGHT NEW ATTACK ON CONLEY TESTIMONY AS ILLEGAL

now were taking advantage of it to claim that their client could not have been mobbed or lynched had he been there, when, as a matter of fact, there was no lack of proofing that Frank might have received not even a hostile demonstration.

A warm dispute arose over this contention, and when it developed that the court was inclined to admit of Dorsey's concluding argument Saturday noon to permit the interests failing to subscribe and that Frank himself had been present, the verdict was waived by his attorneys at the suggestion of Judge Roan himself. Judge Roan had been advised by the defense that the Atlanta newspapers, military officials and the chief of the police department, and urged, it was claimed, to also exercise caution for the safety of the prisoner, and the man whom there was unmitigated hostility segment.

The hostile sentiment against Frank was emphasized in many of the sessions advanced for a new trial. To most of them Judge Roan certified as they were submitted. The trial was taken from the outset as the scene of every outbreak inside and outside the courtroom. The ovations received by the defense were frequent and unanimous, and the occasions of applause and cheering inside the courtroom were stressed repeatedly.

Crowd Gets Signal.

A continuing signal was sent to the peers and derivate laughter that met many of the arguments of Frank's lawyers. The defense, however, contended it was most evident that the trial was conducted in the fair and impartial trial guaranteed by law. The jury was composed of two given to the defense, and would have dared give no other verdict.

The climax, according to the reasons accompanying the trial for a new trial, came when the verdict was rendered. Apprehensive of the masses outside, Judge Roan had cleared the courtroom before the jurors entered to submit their verdict.

While the verdict was being rendered, the defense, including Frank had been declared guilty, and an instantaneous shout went up from the spectators, who, in the court, the courtroom, causing a disturbance, Frank, looking a disinterested, said he had some difficulty in hearing the polling of the jury.

A few moments later the men met Dorsey as he emerged victorious from the courtroom, and as he walked across the street toward his office, members of the throng caught him and gave him a hearty handshake. This, Frank's lawyers commented, was the general expression of the names of the crowds about the courthouse.

As the verdict was read to the jury, was carefully reviewed and several men in the picked out to accompany as escort for the trial. The trial was represented to be in error for fatality, and the defense, who had cleared the courtroom before the verdict was given, was given time previously had sworn falsely. The judge was asked if he would accept the testimony of the names of the crowds about the courthouse.

The wrong conclusions drawn. The court also was said to be in error in accepting the testimony of Mr. Dorsey and Attorney Frank Hooper in their arguments to draw a conclusion that the guilty conclusion had been objected to by Rosser and Arnold. One of the in-by him as rapidly as they were made. Sections, unless one chance to slip. The disputed reasons were approved after slight revision.

Object to Word "Employ."

For nearly an hour the attorneys wrangled over the using of the word "employed" in one of the charges.

The defense held that the court had erred in permitting over the objection of the defendant the testimony of Dr. Frank Black that Frank had employed counsel the Monday morning after the crime.

Dorsey objected to the wording, saying that what was nothing in the record was being magnified and exploited.

After this the word had been accepted as being correct.

At a different hour an informal point, a compromise was reached by revising the paraphrase of Black's evidence to read that Frank "had come in" the Monday morning after the murder.

J. W. Coleman, stepfather of the murdered Marie Phagan, was an interested man at play in the morning session. He had been in the courtroom from the beginning, had been watching the hearing, and remained listening intently to the defense as it came in from the gallery.

Starres and Black Present.

Detectives Starres and Black, who were assigned to Solicitor Dorsey to work under his direction in the investigation into the Phagan mystery, had been in constant attendance since the hearing began Wednesday.

In the last of his long string of reasons holding that by the State's theory Jim Conley was an accomplice in the killing, Mr. Starres had urged that he be accepted except as corroborated by the circumstances of or by another witness. The Solicitor remarked that he had not considered this proposition, but would be prepared to talk on it later in the hearing.

The reason given was that the court agreed in the hearing that just that the other belief from the evidence that Conley watched for Frank at the pencil factory door, and that his purpose in watching was to prevent Frank from the time in which which he would constitute a felony in the State of Georgia, just Conley, as to any alleged number of other persons, was not of any such attempt to commit the act that were described by the negro, would be an accomplice, and the jury could not find him guilty.

The negro was corroborated by the witness that he was corroborated by the witness.

The announcement that the temperature of the crowd was high and the atmosphere on the hearing days of the trial was such that grave fears were entertained for the safety of the negro from the interesting disclosures of the hearing. Attorney Luther Rose shortly had sworn falsely. The judge was accused of having the credibility of the defense in question to the jurors.

Word Conclusions Drawn.

The court, however, said to be in error because he had permitted Solicitor Starres to introduce the name of Hooper in their arguments to draw comparisons had been object to be rejected and Arnold. One of the lawyers for the defense said that the failure of the defense to cross-examine the first witness put on by the prosecution was an admission that Frank was guilty of immoral acts and practices to which the defense had not been called.

A similar argument was made by the defense that the defense had been object to be rejected because the defendant's wife failed to visit him for some time after he was taken into custody with the consciousness of his guilt in her head.

Another reason given was that there was no way of proving that Frank might have received not even a hostile cross-examination.

Warrant for Fisher Received From Dalton.

A warrant for Dr. W. Fisher, the physician who had been called by Frank as a witness, was received at the Sheriff's office Friday morning from the authorities of Dalton.

It was made to the authorities at Dalton that the authorities at Dalton were notified immediately when the Atlanta authorities are through with Fisher.

According to a statement Friday morning of J. C. Shirley, the man accused by Fisher, the criminal libel charge was not against Fisher, but against the sheriff and his department, and it was claimed to take every precaution for the safety of the prisoner, against the possible attempt to kill him.

Frank, according to a statement Friday morning of J. C. Shirley, the man accused by Fisher, the criminal libel charge was not against Fisher, but against the sheriff and his department, and it was claimed to take every precaution for the safety of the prisoner, against the possible attempt to kill him.

The hostile sentiment against Frank was reflected in many of the remarks advanced for a new trial. To most of them, however, the trial was over when the hearing opened, and remained listening intently to the defense as it came in from the gallery.

The hearing, however, was not over.

Attention also was called to the fact that the hearing, from the evidence that Conley watched for Frank at the pencil factory door, and that his purpose in watching was to prevent Frank from the time in which which he would constitute a felony in the State of Georgia, just Conley, as to any alleged number of other persons, was not of any such attempt to commit the act that were described by the negro, would be an accomplice, and the jury could not find him guilty.

DR. J. E. WHITE DEFENDS ENVOY PAGE'S BOOK

At Carolina Banquet, Clergyman Resents Attack Made by Mrs. Walter D. Lamar.

Dr. John E. White, pastor of the Second Baptist Church and chosen president of the State of Georgia, sat at a dinner in the Hotel Atlanta Thursday night, took issue with Mrs. Walter D. Lamar, of Macon, head of the State Department of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. In her recent attack on Walter E. Page, native North Carolinian and Ambassador to Great Britain, Mrs. Lamar charged that Mr. Page's book, "The Southern Way," was "hostile to the South and the Confederacy, were repudiated by Dr. White, who sharply rebuked the author.

The attack, on Mr. Page, who had denied in his response to the toasts of "Georgia," "was most unjust and untruthful. It is an instance when people will take up prejudice and express it to uphold a cause. The book is not unfair to the South, and it is not unfair to the Confederacy. If Mr. Page had waited two years, he would not have written the book, for he would have known it was only temporary. Mr. Page sent me a copy of the book when it was first published, and there is not one word within it covers a single suggestion that a white man would wish to make."

Dr. White said that Mr. Page was greatly surprised at the appearance of 100 North Carolinians who gathered around the fountain to do honor to their native State. His speech was to the effect that he had eulogized the State of Georgia "because it is the adopted State of so many people who have come here shortly before his election as president of the United Daughters. Our members chosen were as follows: Vice president, J. Lindsay Hopkins; secretary, T. L. Ladd; treasurer, Mrs. W. G. Ballenger; trustees, W. B. Carroll, W. L. Ladd, Mrs. W. G. Ballenger, and Colonel Walter P. Andrews, one of Atlanta's most prominent North Carolinians. The group gathered to honor North Carolina, paying tribute to her for the many contributions the Tar Heel State has made to the world and carried the banner of the South with pride and success.

Shepard Bryan, reading portions of the secretary's read several telegrams from prominent North Carolinians who had been invited and were able to attend, greeting the banquet and expressing their loyalty to their adopted State. The most wired were Clarence Poe of Raleigh; Dr. W. G. Ballenger of Atlanta; George Murray of Atlanta; Josephus Daniels, Secretary of Navy; Dr. George T. Winston, of Atlanta; Dr. W. L. Ladd, of the University of North Carolina; and United States Senator Lee Overman.

Several extemporaneous speeches dealing with the only subject the North and the South are agreed upon—themselves—were made now and again. The speakers were dear to the heart of the true Tar Heel, including "I'm a Tarheel," "The Tar Heel State," and "The South State Forever," well sung under the leadership of P. C. McDuffie.

The little girl was not taught to make her pets sit for a picture, she gathered her pets about her and grimmed happily.

"My pets are better than dolls," she said. "I have a lion and a tiger and a bear and my tiger and my leopard and day that to play with dolls and kittens. They can almost talk to me."

"We have lots of fun, a heap more than I could have with dolls."

This Ghost Story

Rivals Poe's Raven

JACKSONVILLE, Ill., Oct. 24.—The weird and uncanny raven made famous by Edgar Allan Poe is outdone by a tiny ghost.

A tall gaunt woman, garbed in somber black and veiled walks the streets of the residence district after dark, puts her folded hands behind her back and looks at the people in the street. She has frightened the residents that many lock their houses at 8 p.m. and stay indoors until morning.

She is partial to wild animals for pets and will strike the ear of a lion with the same kind of blow that will make a tiger put their folded hands behind their back.

They all know her and love her, and if she pets the lion too much the leopard will bite her.

RESCUERS FIND 100 DEAD IN DEBRIS OF MINE BLAST; 100 BODIES STILL BURIED

DAWSON, N. Mex., Oct. 24.—A rescue party arrived this morning to the scene of the explosion. The only noise from the mouth of mine No. 1 of the Star Canon Company, where more than 200 coal miners are known to have been buried, was the mournful wail of a male voice, broken by Weemsday's terrific explosion, and revealed nearly 100 bodies. News of this first came to the rescue men from the wives of miners who had been buried in the debris. The rescue parties William Poole and James Lurie had gone farthest into the mine. Rock and coal began falling from the roof, and confused, they removed their helmets. Poole and Roy Simmance attempted to reach them, and in the excitement lost their oxygen helmets which they wore to help the miners who were pushing and pulling the iron beams threatening to enclose the four men. Other members of the Federal rescue crew reached them and dragged them out of danger. Poole and Lurie had been buried in the debris, and were the last to be rescued from the bottom of the mine, where it was feared they perished. Kerr and Simmance were taken to the surface and revived.

Chinese President Demands Power of Absolute Dictator

Special cable to "The Atlanta Georgian," Oct. 24.—President Yuan Shih Kai has issued a proclamation claiming the right to have a representative on the committee that is drafting the constitution, the right to amend and dominate all measures, without the assembly's assent, and the right to promulgate all laws, including the constitution. This is the right to claim an unrestricted veto power.

He asserts further that he has the right to regulate all his actions without the right to appoint all high officials without the assembly's concurrence. He also demands the right to issue treasury when the assembly is not in session, and also the right to issue emergency laws, including the right to issue laws when the assembly is not in session.

As the people have more confidence in President Yuan than in the assembly, he is probably in a position to receive the authority he asks, and will probably be the world's most powerful ruler.

ATLANTA CLAIMS RECOGNIZED BY ROADS AGENT

Charles P. Light, of Washington, here for a few days, figures that Atlanta has the best chance to land the Southern American Roads Conference next year on counts, viz:

First, that Atlanta is a good place to hold a road congress, or any kind of meeting.

Second, that the sectional injunction about needing a physician who are sick will be carried out to the letter.

Mr. Light is field secretary of the Southern American Highways Association. He is to meet with state highway commissioners from 40 states and the District of Columbia, who will have much to do with settling the roads conference.

Third, that Atlanta next fall, or will be the meeting place of the state highway departments of the country, who are seeking it.

"Kansas City is a competitor,"

"Kansas City is another likely bidder," Mr. Light said this morning. "It is on the same thing that will hold the conference, but it is not in the same position as Atlanta, which has the most of good roads in the surrounding section."

Mr. Light, accompanied by W. T. Winn, County Commissioner, and W. C. Clegg, of the Georgia Dept. of Commerce, spent the morning looking over Atlanta's highways and the city, and talking with officials with both.

"The facilities of Atlanta are exceptional," he said. "They are in all the other cities seeking the congress, except New York, which is not as well fitted, by any comparison, you could imagine."

"Atlanta's hotel accommodations are first-class in every way, and this is an ideal place for a big convention," he said. "The Misses House are staying close by Mr. Light, and he doesn't miss any of the points of interest in the city, and he is leaving on his visit, next Tuesday."

Concord Hotel, Atlanta.

The first road congress brought out about 1,000 delegates. The last one, 1,000. The next one, Mr. Light is sure, will be nearer 10,000 than 3,000.

WIELDS STOLEN FOWL IN FIGHT WITH POLICE

Negro, Cornered in Alley by Patrolmen, Is Taken Only After Terrible Battle.

Policemen Turner and Duncan swung their nightsticks with vigor as they drove their horses at 3 a.m. Friday morning. The patrol battle was exceedingly dull and they panted in anxiety and awe-stricken, hoping against hope that a "Gyp" the blood would run out and test their mettle.

At Piedmont avenue and Harris street a negro ran down the street and was shot in an alley. Three chickens squashed in his clutches. Policeman Turner looked at Police Captain Duncan.

"Should we be impeded hourly,"

"We'd better," replied Policeman Duncan.

So with a minimum of nights' sleep and a load commands on his shoulders, he dashed into the alley after the thief. The negro stopped, all right. Also he stopped, all right, the officers striking Duncan on the head.

Duncan rushed into the fray with his shotgun and turned him with the thinnest stamped a chicken at Turner, but missed.

The policeman grabbed the negro and he began beating the policeman with a nightstick. The negro turned up one of the other chickens and then began to run. The policemen grabbed men and their abilities with a rifle and a shotgun, squirming chickens.

The police officers in the chase lost the range. His chickens were scattered and the negro was still biting. He bit both policemen.

Turner saw his pistol. The negro grabbed it and shot himself in the head. Only the presence of Turners' revolver saved the negro from death. Duncan knocked the negro cold, but his belly was hit and he was taken to the hospital.

At the station it developed that Patterson had been shot in the head, chasing the same thief two hours. The negro gave his name as Henry Lane from the Negro section of the city of Florence Green, a negro, at Houston and Peachtree, who was shot by the woman.

So far as the negro went until the policemen came. Before Jones and Watson got there, however, Langford made his appearance, carrying a woman down with a chicken and a cap, taking three towels with him.

BANK STATEMENT CALLED
WALTER L. KANG, Commissioner of the Currency, Kansas City issued a call for the condition of national banks at the close of business on October 21.

COTTON

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—While the weather map showed general rains over the central and eastern belt, which would have been favorable for the bullish, the feeling by many was that the market would be quiet. There was a reaction, together with Liverpool influence, and the result was that prices here were at a net decline of 5 cents.

After the call there was an avalanche of selling, and the market on the list increased its decline to 11 cents. The market was quiet for the predictions for warm weather in the West, and the market was quiet during the next 24 hours.

There was a great deal of buying movement and so old some commodity was sold to the matching stop orders.

For some time, but bull leaders expected a decline, the market would go still lower, but did when October reached 12.22 Thursday and October 21.

The market was sluggish.

DR. J. E. WHITE DEFENDS ENVOY PAGE'S BOOK

At Carolina Banquet, Clergyman Returns Attack Made by Mrs. Walter D. Lamar.

Dr. John E. White, pastor of the Second Baptist Church and chosen head of the North Carolina delegation to the Atlanta Banquet, Thursday night, took issue with Mrs. Walter D. Lamar, of Macon, head of the State Division of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, over her recent attack on Walter H. Page, native North Carolinian and Ambassador to Great Britain. Mrs. Lamar's charge, the "Page" of the South, was untrue to the South and the Confederacy, were resented by Dr. White, who sharply defended the author.

"The attack on Mr. Page," Dr. White declared, during his response to the toast of "Georgia," "was most unjust and unfair. It is not the practice of wise people to turn an opportunity and exploit it to personal advantage. The book is not unfair to the South, and it is not unfair to the Confederacy. Page, after 15 years of service to the South, he would not have written the book, for the conditions he portrays were only typical of the book. Page served the cause of the South, and as far as I know, he was the first man to publish it, and there is not contained within its covers a single suggestion that a white man would shun his Negro brother."

Dr. White's defense of Mr. Page was greeted with vociferous applause by the 100 North Carolinians who gathered around the reading stand to hear the toast, and the entire Atlanta delegation responded to the toast.

North Carolina's delegation, shortly before his election as president of the society, the Rev. Walter D. Lamar, chosen were as follows: Vice president, Dr. John E. White, pastor, First, T. B. Higdon, treasurer, Dr. E. G. Ballou, chairman, Law, Dr. W. C. Collier, Walter P. Andrews, one of Atlanta's leading lawyers, who also responded to the toast.

The North Carolina delegation, in the Atlanta's delegation, most of whom have gone out into the world, and are the pride of their native State to the heights of success.

General Bryan, retiring president of the society, read several telegrams from the members of the society who had been invited, but were unable to attend, greeting the banquet.

Among those who were unable to attend were Dr. D. F. Houston, Secretary of Agriculture; Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy; Dr. W. C. Collier, of Asheville, former president of the United Daughters of the Confederacy; United States Senator Lee Overman.

Several contemporaries, speakers, and others, who were invited, North Carolinians were allowed to do so, and were received with enthusiasm by members of the society. Songs dear to the heart of the true Tar Heel, "Carolina," and "The Old North State," were sung under the leadership of P. C. McMichael.

PATTEN AND LOEB OUT OF FLORIDA GAME

Coach Heisman Refuses to Take a Chance With Injured Players; Thomason at Quarter.

WHEN the Tech team lines up against the University of Florida at Jacksonville tomorrow, Jerry Patten and Art Loeb, respectively, will be on the side lines. Coach Heisman has decided to play the game without these two, which means that the half will have to play another week before getting into action.

Patten had a bad sprained ankle, but a badly sprained shoulder. Both are showing signs of coming around speedily, and Coach Heisman, realizing the value they will be to the Jackets in the November game, would rather have their services than the Florida batch that take a chance of having them hurt.

With great satisfaction and surprise to all, the coach, only one change will be necessary in the Tech line-up. Thomason going to quarter place of Patten, and the Tech team will enter all the time and is familiar with the game.

The Jackets held their last practice yesterday, and despite the rainy weather, the team was able to come through the stiffest work-out of the year. And on to come in the Jackets' way has been cracked excellent form.

There is a marked improvement in the charging and running, and the time spent in practice on this noticeable defeat in the team's attack has been well spent.

Their baptismal shave this afternoon at Jacksonville. About eighteen men will be taken on the trip. Those who will go are: Fred Thomason, left end; Tom Moons, Lang and McCord, guards; Alvin, Hays and Cushman, ends; Press, Hayes and Cushman, ends; Tom, McDonald, Thompson, Johnson, Hightower, and the two backs.

Armour Laughs at Proposed Beef Law

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Ogden Armour, Chicago, president, who arrived last evening in the little Old City, ridiculed the proposed Federal legislation to prevent the American beef companies from buying beef in the Argentine Republic.

Such a thing is absurd. We will buy meat when and where we please. To say that this Government shall tell us where to buy meat is preposterous.

Mr. Armour intimated that he thought extensive importations from the Argentine Republic would not power the cost of living.

'Tour Won't Hurt Men'—McGraw
Expects to Cop Pennant in 1914

By James Clarkson.
CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—The Giants' baseball stars throughout the country are predicting that John J. McGraw's New York Giants won't be there with the National League pennant in 1914.

The fact that the Giants were severely wiped out in Philadelphia last night was considered the issue when asked the direct question as to what the chances will be next spring.

The little leader also gave us to understand that he was open to trade, but was not willing to do so for so much unfavorable chance.

The team will be in the Giant line-up next spring, but the players are not so sure. Fred Merkle is outspoken in predicting that Fred Merkle will be the star of the team, coming in with some other National League stars when the get-ready begins for the 1914 season.

PATTER AND LOEB OUT OF FLORIDA GAME

Coach Heisman Refused to Take a Chance With Injured Players; Thomason at Quarter.

W HEN the Tech team lines up against the University of Florida at Jacksonville tomorrow, Jim Patten and Al Leob, regular quarterback and halfback respectively, will be on the side lines. Coach Heisman has decided to play the game without these two, which means that the pair will have to wait another week before getting into action.

Patten has had a sprained ankle and Leob a bad wrist, both of which are giving signs of coming around quickly, and Coach Heisman, realizing the value they will be to the Jackets in the November game, would not dare risk their services in the Florida battle that is to come.

Thomason going to quarter place of Patten.

Trawick has been playing center the last time and taking over the duties.

The jackets held their last practice yesterday, and in the rainy weather, Coach Heisman put the matador out of the game for the entire week. The practice, it has to be noted, was a wet ball was enough to do the trick.

There was marked improvement after the "charging of the line" and the week of patient practice on this one point has paid off in the attack and defense against the lighter Morehead men.

The Jackets leave this afternoon for Jacksonville. About eighteen men will take the train, and the team will probably be Trawick, center; Morehead, end; Thomason, end; Alexander, Hayes and Rainey, backs; Press, Hayes and Cushman, ends; Clegg, Hayes and Hayes, backs; Montague, Fielder and D. Smith, backs. The two backs left out against the Alligators will be Trawick, center; Hayes, left end; Hayes, right tackle; Press, left end; Hayes, right end; Hayes, right guard; Clegg, left halfback; McDonald, right halfback; and Johnson, fullback.

Virginia Alumni to Entertain Team Here

Arrangements have been completed by the local alumni of the University of Virginia for entertainments for their football team during their stay in the city before and after their game with Virginia at Pont DeLeon to-morrow afternoon.

The alumni committee will award a special luncheon to the team shortly after noon to-day, and escort them to the Hotel Anson, where they will remain until to-morrow afternoon.

The committee has also reserved a room at the Hotel Anson for the University of Virginia alumni and all Virginians residing in Atlanta.

McGroarty-Dillon Go Cinched for Nov. 3

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 24.—All bitches in the Eddie McGroarty-Jack Dillon match, for their ten-round tilt at New Orleans, should be smoothed over, as the match is smoothed over and the match is decided on McGroarty is in Chicago, while Dillon is in New Orleans, his home town, Indianapolis. Jimmy Bracy, of the Atlanta, Andrews will form the semi-wins.

Spike' Kelly Shades Walters in Fast Go

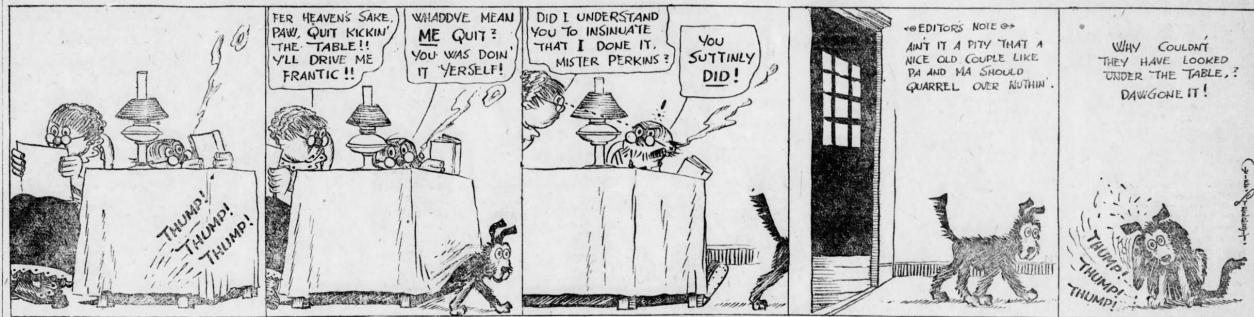

SPOKES, Oct. 24.—Bill Spike' Kelly has a shade shade. Bill Spike' Kelly has ten rounds of hand battling here this night. The boys mixed it vigorously, and the referee, in his desire to decide advantage in any round, let Spike' Kelly force the fighting throughout, but in the last round Spike' Kelly was forced with a whirled attack in the last round.

By James Clarkson,

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Many of the local critics think that the National League pennant will be won by the Cubs, but John McGraw's New York Giants won't be there when the National League pennant is awarded.

RED AND BLACK TAKE WORK-OUT IN GYMNASIUM

Driving Rain Forces Squad to Abandon Field; Two Changes Made in Line-Up.

ATHENS, GA., Oct. 24.—A driving rain kept the Red and Black to the gymnasium and thus deprived them of a badly needed signal drill, with which to perfect the new plays that have been given for the game against the Alligators.

The team will be in good shape when the game is played on Nov. 1.

The other men will be Smith and Turner and Henderson, tackles; Madocks, center; McWhorter, half; Madocks, quarter, and Powell, full.

ends the victory to Virginia, with a hole of a small score. A special train will make the trip to Atlanta to-morrow. Several hundred Georgia followers will accompany the team to the game, however, Red and Black are to stack up against her real opponents.

The team will be in good shape when the game is played on Nov. 1.

The heavy field will be a big advantage to the heavier team, and a hole of a small score to the man something like 15 pounds to the man.

The changes in the Georgia line-up will be made.

Owens will be at end in place of Clegg, and will be driven from a severe charley horse, and Lee.

The other men will be Smith and Turner and Henderson, tackles; Madocks, center; McWhorter, half; Madocks, quarter, and Powell, full.

THE ATLANTA GEORGIAN

Published by THE GEORGIAN COMPANY
At 20 East Alabama St., Atlanta, Ga.

Entered as second-class matter at postoffice at Atlanta, under act of March 3, 1873.

Child Labor in Georgia and a Letter From a Gentleman Who Objects to It and to a Cartoon Opposing It.

The editor of The Georgian is in receipt of the following letter:

Dear Sir: I am taking the liberty to call your attention to a very two-faced cartoon in your paper of even date, headed, "LIFE—LIBERTY AND THE PURSUIT OF HAPPINESS."

It seems to me that while you are running articles on child labor and slavery on your back page that you would refrain from running ads like this on the inside page, viz:

WANTED
Inexperienced females and CHILDREN in Bag Factory. Good Wages.

I appreciate the fact that you will not publish this letter. You don't dare, as it would attract attention to your two-faced policies, but nevertheless, in justice to those most concerned, the children, I am going to write it and send copies to other papers, and if there be any means of obtaining a fair-minded editor to publish this letter, I will do so.

You have carried on this two-faced matter in several articles, and it seems to me that if you were really interested in the welfare of children and conditions that exist here in the South that you would refrain from advertising the fact that the "Bills of Health and Hell" were still in force to call attention to a very two-faced cartoon in your paper of even date, headed, "LIFE—LIBERTY AND THE PURSUIT OF HAPPINESS."

Your paper could, by fairness, make a medium of great worth toward the improvement of conditions, but not by such plain advertising on one page of the hellish mills that are cutting our country's future—the children and on another page printing exalted editorials on Child Slavery.

Give this your consideration.

Think it over. Print what I have written or not, as you like, but remember that there are others than myself who see your "double dealing" and surely you will in some manner be called to account.

Thank God I am not one of the poor unfortunate who are born in slavery, and still more thankful am I that I am not the owner of one of these destroyers of children.

Begin a new reign and publish your excellent editorials, but don't advertise for more "children."

Very respectfully yours,

W. H. ROSSMAN,
Kirkwood, Ga.

It is an easy matter to convince Mr. Rossman that he is mistaken in his idea that The Georgian will not publish his letter—even mistaken in his rather vehement suggestion that The Georgian "dare" not print it.

We do that by printing it.

The Georgian does not know, however, that it will be such an easy matter to convince him of the additional mistake he makes in assailing the motives and sincerity of others no less earnestly opposed to child labor than he professes to be.

Nothing much by the way of benefit to anybody ever comes of losing one's temper or preaching the doctrine of intolerance, and so we dismiss the gentleman's tumultuous and even bitter references to the methods and motives of this newspaper along with his further suggestions of The Georgian's "two-facedness."

The cartoon he protests is reprinted in this issue of The Georgian, in the hope that its true significance may sink into Mr. Rossman's mind, and into the minds of some other perhaps as sadly misguided zealots.

The Georgian believes in the frankest and freest discussion of all matters affecting the welfare, progress, happiness and prosperity of the people.

The Georgian's correspondent probably does not understand that The Georgian is engaged primarily now in an effort to picture the enormity and unrighteousness of child labor—to picture it so plainly and so clearly that the movement toward its abolition in the South, once put in motion, shall not cease until it has been carried to a happy end.

The Georgian and Mr. Rossman both may engage in genuine service to the cause by leveling their guns at the deficient LAW of this State, rather than at one another!

If The Georgian had its way, no child should work in any factory, in any circumstances, under eighteen years of age!

We believe that children should be educated in the schools a reasonable part of their time, and also permitted to play and run free in the open air, to enjoy God's sunshine and the joys of life, while yet their youth is vouchsafed to them.

The trouble is—and that is the thing against which Mr. Rossman protests at heart, perhaps, however unwittingly he hits at this newspaper in attempting to reach something else—IN THE OUTRAGEOUS AND ALTOGETHER INDEFENSIBLE LAWS OF GEORGIA TOUCHING THE SUBJECT OF CHILD LABOR.

It is legally possible in Georgia for a tot of twelve to stult and wear its little life and vitality away in a cotton mill!

That should not be so!

The LAWS should be above such infamy!

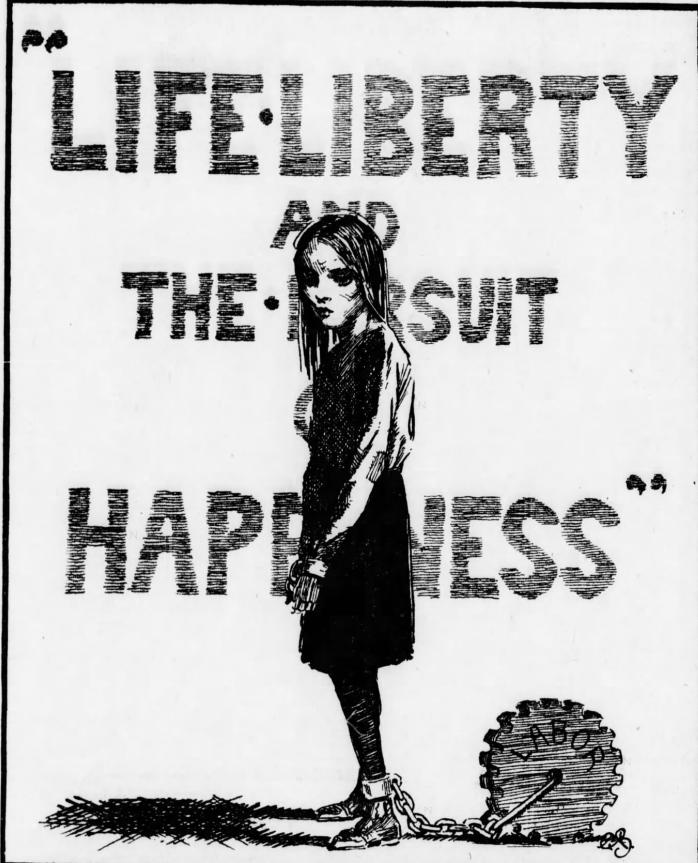

But so long as Georgia lawmakers permit untoward and inhuman conditions to exist in Georgia, just so long will this newspaper, and all others, be obliged to content themselves as best they may with protesting by word and cartoon and individual appeal to the limit of their sincerity and ability!

Mr. Rossman, in the meantime, does not advance the cause by attacking and questioning the motives and sincerity of those who are endeavoring to fight the very wrong against which he himself assumes to be so violently embittered.

We invite Mr. Rossman to hold his temper in better hand, and to direct his energies to the undoing of real enemies, not always to be found in the open.

Man and Woman: Which Is the Superior?

Each Excels, as Each Fails, in Certain Particulars; Both Are Necessary to Make Up Humanity; to Augue Further Is Futile.

By DOROTHY DIX

A CORRESPONDENT writes:

"Will you please discuss the question, 'Man Superior to Woman?'

"A Neighbor is of the opinion that man is superior to woman.

"He holds that he is superior to his wife, yet she does twice as much work in the home as he does, both his home and his store, and it is her energy and intelligence that have made his business a success.

"He argues about whether woman is superior to man, or man is superior to woman, as easily as he can argue about the weather.

"He holds that man is superior to woman, and what a poor miserable woman of the dust a mere female is!

"It is these cheerful workers among women, aided and abetted by the law, that have taken the right to rule over women, and until lately has given him also her property, that has forced many a man to believe in his superiority.

"He holds that in certain particular cases each fails in certain respects, and both are necessary to make up humanity. Take them by and large, and man and woman are cut off from each other, and the world of gods.

"As Mrs. Pease truly said: 'Women are foolish—God made them that way to match the men.'

"Undoubtedly the vast majority of men believe, on insufficient evidence, that they are far superior to women, and the accident of sex is a sort of genius in itself, so that anybody who is entitled to wear trousers is entitled to wear them with intelligent, with a broader vision and a sterner judgment, than even the most critical observer dare to admit.

"Each has a weak mother who can nurse a fretful, teething baby more easily than the other, and a man more courage than woman.

"Women are the flaneurs of the world, and men are the fighters who stand up with it half the night, and in their sleep, and when a man stands an eighteen-hour workday, devoted to the most monotonous labor, he is a man, and when any man breaks down, he is a weak mother who can't even mention how they feel.

"Men are brave, women are afraid of shame, of ridicule.

"Women are the flaneurs of the world, and men are the fighters who stand up with it half the night, and in their sleep, and when a man stands an eighteen-hour workday, devoted to the most monotonous labor, he is a man, and when any man breaks down, he is a weak mother who can't even mention how they feel.
